

ChooseYourTomorrow.com features a motivational activity with a unique approach. Often we ask kids what they want to be when they grow up. Well, that is a hard question even for many adults. Even when they do have an idea, it is often one of just a few professions. However, there is a related question that almost anyone can answer: What do you want to have?

Students are asked to plan a life they would like to have including marriage, children, house, cars, electronics, furniture, entertainment and even charitable giving and savings. From this short 10-15 minute activity, they are given a budget showing how much they would have to make in order to live the way they would like to live. From there they are given an opportunity to explore careers in different areas and with different educational levels that would provide them with this level of income.
